

Raonic moves onward

The Canadian Press

PARIS
Canadian Milos Raonic caught a break Friday at the French Open as he needed less than a half hour to complete a third-round victory over Spain's Guillermo Garcia-Lopez.

Raonic, the No. 5 seed from Thornhill, Ont., advanced when Garcia-Lopez retired from the match due to a left thigh injury. The Canadian, who was leading 6-1, 1-0 at the time, said he can use the extra rest.

"I'll take it when I can have it," Raonic said. "I've played a lot over the last weeks. I'm playing well. I'm happy with the way I was able to start today. I think I've made good progress and I'm getting better and better each match."

"Now I'm just looking forward to playing in two days."

Garcia-Lopez needed treatment at the end of the first set. Raonic had a 12-2 edge in winners and recorded five aces over the 28-minute contest.

Next up for the Canadian is a fourth-round match against 20th-seeded Pablo Carreno Busta of Spain, a 7-5, 6-3, 6-4 winner over Bulgaria's Grigor Dimitrov.

"I watched a bit of his match today, he's playing well," Raonic said. "He's improved a lot over the last 16 months or so. I played him a few times toward the end of last year. He's very solid, he's disciplined, he shows up and he's there and he doesn't exit the match, you really have to beat him."

"You have to take it to him. So it's going to be about trying to get control and trying to hold on to it throughout the match."

Raonic did not drop a set in their three previous head-to-head meetings. He won on grass at Wimbledon last year and beat him twice on hardcourts later in the season.

Raonic is making his sixth career appearance at Roland

Garros. His best result came in 2014 when he reached the quarter-finals.

Djokovic has a rough day advancing

From a tiff with the chair umpire to the big deficit he created and then needed to overcome in a steady rain, Novak Djokovic had an all-around difficult day at the French Open.

Rafael Nadal's journey to the fourth round, in contrast, could hardly have been easier. Indeed, his 100th best-of-five-set match on clay was also the most lopsided.

The stark numbers on the scoreboards at Court Philippe Chatrier revealed plenty about how differently things went in the back-to-back contests Friday for defending champion Djokovic and nine-time champion Nadal. First up in the main stadium at Roland Garros was Nadal, who won 82 points and conceded merely Canada's Milos Raonic plays a shot against Spain's Guillermo Garcia-Lopez during their third round match of the French Open tennis tournament at the Roland Garros stadium, in Paris, France Friday.

36 in a 6-0, 6-1, 6-0 victory over 63rd-ranked Nikoloz Basilashvili.

"The score is quite embarrassing, you know," Basilashvili acknowledged, "but I have to accept it."

Djokovic followed in the main stadium and found himself in quite a bit of trouble right away against 41st-ranked Diego Schwartzman before emerging to win 5-7, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1.

While it took Basilashvili 12 games and 49 minutes just to claim a single game — which spectators greeted with a roar as he stood motionless and straight-faced — Schwartzman not only took the second game of his match against Djokovic, he grabbed the opening set, too. And then the third, to go up by two sets to one.

Schwartzman played well during that stretch, to be sure, but the No. 2-seeded Djokovic's biggest problem was himself.

Another stellar day for Dufner gives him record

DOUG FERGUSON
The Associated Press

DUBLIN, Ohio

Jason Dufner wanted to put together more than just a few good rounds this week at the Memorial.

The first two put him in the record book.

Dufner holed out from 176 yards on the 18th hole for an eagle, and then added three more birdies on the front nine at Muirfield Village for another 7-under 65, giving him the 36-hole scoring record at the Memorial and a five-shot lead going into the weekend.

He was at 14-under 130, one shot better than the record previously held by Rickie Fowler (2010) and Scott Hoch (1987). Neither wound up winning the tournament.

Daniel Summerhays made bogey on his last hole and shot 69 to finish five shots behind Dufner. Fowler (66) was another shot behind.

Jordan Spieth was one shot out of the lead after the opening round. He already was eight shots back when he teed off, and all he managed was a 72. Spieth and Justin Thomas (71) were tied for fourth and eight shots behind.

"Duf is obviously in full control of the ball tee to green, and you've got to be making some putts, too," Spieth said. "He had two fantastic days. He's a major champion and a multiple PGA Tour winner, he's going to be a tough guy to chase down. But again, playing with the lead on this golf course I imagine is going to be difficult."

Nordqvist leads

GALLOWAY TOWNSHIP, N.J.

Anna Nordqvist knows how to get around Stockton Seaview — and likes the view from atop the ShopRite LPGA Classic leaderboard.

The two-time defending champion shot a 7-under 64 on Friday to take a one-stroke lead after the first round of the 54-hole event near Atlantic City.

"It just really fits my eye," Nordqvist said. "I have so many good memories here, obviously. It almost feels like home now with a lot of supporters and a lot of friends here."

She's trying to join fellow Swede Annika Sorenstam as the only three-time winner.

"I feel like I enjoy this place, but at the same time, I don't feel like I have anything to prove here," Nordqvist said. "I am just trying to take it day-by-day. I've been playing good for a long time now, so just trying get everything to click at once. Happy with my start and looking forward to the rest."
