Canada falls in shocker

The Canadian Press

MINSK, Belarus
Erik Gudbranson thought it was the best thing for Team Canada to be locked in a tight game against France in its world hockey championship opener.

"That's a great test for our team," the defenceman said. "It's good to be put in those situations quickly and be able to figure it out."

Problem is, Canada never quite figured it out.

The Canadians took more penalties and committed more turnovers on the way to a stunning 3-2 shootout loss to France on Friday at Chizhovka-Arena. In the quick reflection of history, it looked like Canada's worst loss at the IIHF world hockey championship since falling to Norway in St. Petersburg, Russia, in 2000.

It was just the second time

Canada lost to France in this tournament, with the only other one coming in 1995. Previously the Canadians were 8-1 all-time against the French and looked like a significant favourite again this time.

Instead, six minor penalties, too many turnovers and two power-play goals by France spelled disaster.

"We took some poor penalties, put them on the power play and made some critical errors on the kills that ended up coming back to bite us," coach Dave Tippett said. "When you're playing a team that is just playing not to lose because every time you turn the puck over or take a penalty, they're just waiting for that advantage. They're just waiting for you to make a mistake and they feel like that's when they can make up for the discrepancy, possibly, in talent."

The talent discrepancy looked substantial, even as Canada returned no players from the team that won gold at the Sochi Olympics. All 20 skaters and goaltender James Reimer play in the NHL, while France had just Antoine Roussel from the Dallas Stars, Stephane Da Costa from the Ottawa Senators' organization and former Montreal Canadiens goaltender Cristobal Huet.

Not surprisingly those players played major roles in one of the biggest victories in French hockey history. Da Costa scored France's two regulation goals, while Huet stopped 34 of 36 shots he faced before stoning Kyle Turris, Matt Read and Sean Monahan in the shootout.

Pierre-Edouard Bellemare scored the shootout-winner for France, snapping a shot past Reimer.

The Environmental Utilities Department will test and flush fire hydrants plus water mains until October 2014. This is an annual maintenance activity that maintains water quality and system infrastructure. Residents may notice some discoloring of water, which is not harmful and will disappear when flushing is complete. Fluctuating pressure may also be noticed. Should discoloration persist beyond three hours, you may wish to flush the water from your home for a few minutes by watering your lawn or running your tap. Please note that the flushing in your home will not correct private plumbing/corrosion problems. Thank you for your understanding.
