

Zack Smith retiring from NHL

The Canadian Press

OTTAWA
Zack Smith has decided to retire from the NHL. The Ottawa Senators confirmed the 33-year-old centre is hanging up his skates on the team's social media channels Friday. Smith played the first 612 games of his career in the nation's capital, registering 94 goals, 193 points and 693 penalty minutes in parts of 11 seasons.

He had two goals and nine points in 45 career playoff games for the Senators. The forward from Maple Creek, Sask., was traded to the Chicago Blackhawks ahead of the 2019-2020 campaign. Smith scored four times and had seven assists in 50 games before sitting out all of 2020-21. Drafted by the Senators with the 79th pick at the 2008 NHL draft, Smith had never scored more than 14 goals in a season before putting up a career-high 25 in 2015-16.

Blackhawks' Kane says he didn't know in 2010 about assault allegations

The Associated Press

CHICAGO
Blackhawks star Patrick Kane said Friday he has participated in the investigation into allegations that a then-assistant coach sexually assaulted two players in 2010, adding that he did not know anything happened at the time. "Obviously very serious allegations, and everyone knows that," Kane said at the annual

NHL/NHLPA preseason player media tour. "But I will say that I didn't know anything about it at the time and did participate with the investigation." Kane's comments were his first since the allegations came to light. The Blackhawks launched the investigation led by a former federal prosecutor and pledged to release the findings. The three-time Stanley Cup champion said he also was unaware of homophobic bullying of one of his former teammates that ensued. "Obviously disturbing," Kane said. "You never want to hear that type of stuff. I feel for (someone making) those type of allegations. And hopefully it didn't affect the player too much. But I'm sure when you're hearing that type of stuff, obviously it could affect you deep down."

WATER MAIN FLUSHING & FIRE HYDRANT INSPECTIONS

Environmental Utilities performs regular, routine maintenance to uphold the water quality and system infrastructure by annually flushing water mains and inspecting fire hydrants.

During these operations, there may be some discoloration in the water which is not harmful to consume and will disappear when flushing is complete. Please note that discoloured water should not be used for laundry and that fluctuating water pressure may also be noticed.

Should discoloration persist beyond three hours, turn on your cold water tap or an outside sprinkler and let the water run for several minutes until the water runs clear.

For additional information or to confirm whether crews are working in your zone, refer to the Water Flushing Programs page on the City's website at www.medicinehat.ca/eu or contact Environmental Utilities at 403.529.8176.
